Dear Community Partner,

This November, Bag & Glory will bring approximately 200 women to Fayetteville, North Carolina for an experience centered on one thing: helping women move from calling and ideas into execution.

Our attendees include aspiring and established entrepreneurs, creatives, ministry leaders, professionals, and community builders who are actively investing in what they are building and preparing for what comes next.

And that creates an opportunity for the businesses that partner with us.

The woman preparing to launch a business will need banking, insurance, printing, marketing, technology, professional services, and places to meet and work. The creative building her platform will invest in equipment, beauty, fashion, photography, content, travel, and services. The ministry leader expanding her reach will need resources, vendors, venues, communications tools, and community relationships.

We want the businesses that support Bag & Glory to be among the businesses she remembers when she needs them.

Partnership opportunities have been intentionally designed to provide visibility before, during, and beyond the conference through digital promotion, on-site recognition, attendee experiences, vendor opportunities, and direct brand exposure.

This isn't simply an opportunity to place your logo on an event. It's an opportunity to introduce your business to a room of women who are building, buying, leading, creating, and making decisions about where they will spend next.

Partnership opportunities begin at $250, with additional advertising opportunities available for businesses looking for an accessible way to get in the room.

I invite you to take a look at the enclosed partnership opportunities and consider where your business fits into the Bag & Glory experience.

We would be honored to introduce your brand to our community.
